1. Do UML classes first + Test
2. Then do front end + GUI

3. Picture a feature such as adding (for one type/class)

4. Front end validates null input (front end validation only)
5. Database class role will be responsible for processing all elements + Displaying GUI
   a. Because this reduces overhead in creating temp array and returning to form to display
6. Form class will validate GUI selection